

Follow the 3Rs

Top: 2.75-inch practice rocket warhead removed from site

Bottom: 3-lb miniature practice bomb removed from site

Recognize Recognize when you may have come across a munition and that munitions are dangerous.

Recognizing when you may have come across a munition is the most important step in keeping yourself and others safe. Munitions come in many sizes, shapes and colors. Some may look like bullets or bombs while others look like pipes, small cans or even a car muffler. Whether whole or in parts, new or old, shiny or rusty, munitions can still explode.

Retreat Do not approach, touch, move or disturb it, but carefully leave the area.

Avoid injury by recognizing that you may have encountered a munition and promptly retreating from the area. If you encounter what you believe is a munition, do not touch, move or disturb it. Instead, immediately and carefully leave the area by retracing your steps — going out the way you entered. Once safely away from the munition, mark the path so response personnel can find the munition.

Report call 911 and advise the police of what you saw and where you saw it.

Protect yourself, your family, your friends and your community by calling 911 to immediately report munitions or suspected munitions to the police.